

A concentration in International Management can prepare you to work as part of global business environments and practices. Most students decide to combine an International Management concentration with another concentration, with the possibility of pursuing job opportunities domestically and abroad. International Management can provide a good foundation for awareness of diversity and cultural topics and analysis of globalization opportunities for businesses.

International Management is a nice complement to any concentration; some of our more popular choices include Finance, Accounting Marketing and Information Systems. Additionally, many students also seek minors outside of Questrom and interest can range based on the area most interested in. For all available minors, please visit the Boston University programs website found here.

To concentrate in International Management there is a required study abroad experience as well as a language requirement. For more information on required courses and other details please visit here

POPULAR CAREER PATHS

Because International Management is very broad, students enter the same careers as other concentrators but with an international focus. This could mean managing international client relations, working for a global company and working on projects of an international scale, or managing finances in the global market place.
